

About My Village

My village name is Kanasanapalli.

It is a small village in Andhra Pradesh. There are poor people living there. They work in the fields for most of the time. But they live with each other and share their happiness together.

In that village all people depend upon the fields for their food and survival. But they will help if the unknown person came to the village.

In my village we don't have even a hospital. And we don't have educated people. But all my villagers live with each other and live happily.
